

Regency Road to Pym Street Project

WORKS NOTIFICATION

November 2019

Temporary Angle Park stockpile site

The Australian and South Australian governments have jointly committed $354.3 million to construct the Regency Road to Pym Street (R2P) Project as part of their overall commitment to build a non-stop North-South Corridor.

The R2P Project comprises an at-grade motorway from the existing motorway infrastructure to the north (South Road Superway); an overpass of the motorway over Regency Road; and an at-grade motorway from Regency Road to Pym Street, transitioning to the lowered motorway infrastructure (Torrens Road to River Torrens Project).

What works are currently being undertaken?

The R2P Project is undertaking site clearance works, utility service relocations and construction of the Common Services Trench (CST), which holds key utility services including lighting, communication and power, within the project area.

As these works progress, there will be a requirement to transport the excavated material by truck along South Road to nearby stockpile sites.

These stockpile sites are required for temporary storage. The old Superway Casting Yard located at 628 – 638 South Road, Angle Park, has been identified as a location for temporary stockpile storage (see map overleaf).

What will be temporarily stored at the old Superway Casting Yard stockpile site?

Material that has been excavated from the project site area will be temporarily stored at the stockpile site to be reused as construction progresses. Any material that is unsuitable for reuse will be transported directly off the project site.

The R2P project team is working closely with the Environment Protection Agency (EPA) to ensure that all material is stored appropriately, in line with EPA regulations.

What will the old Superway Casting Yard stockpile site look like?

The stockpile site will be fenced off and access in and out of the site will be controlled by the R2P project team, and gates will be locked when the site is not in use.

The stockpile site will be used mainly during the day, with some access required at night during project night-works. Temporary light towers may be installed within the site if required, to ensure safe access.

How long will the old Superway Casting Yard stockpile site be used for?

The stockpile site is planned to be in use from November 2019 to September 2021. However, in mid-2020 the R2P project team will reassess the need for the stockpile site and undertake consultation with the EPA should continued use be required. If any changes to the current arrangement occurs, the surrounding community will be notified.
